

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

7 JUNE 2010

AXIA INTERACTIVE MEDIA ANNOUNCES RELEASE OF THEIR NEW MANAGEMENT INFORMATION REPORT.

Are you a manager who instantly wants to review the progress your learners are making?

Have you ever worked out how much time you spend tracking progress and assessing quality?

Why buy a reporting system when an e-portfolio system instantly can create all your reports?

Axia Interactive Media are delighted to announce the deployment of one of the most powerful reports that we have produced to date. We do not pretend that it removes altogether the need to have software to link into funding claims, although what these will look like in the future is anyone's guess. However what it does do is put all the key management data in one place thereby reducing your need to incur a large amount of additional expense on a reporting tool.

The major benefits of an e-portfolio is that you can both capture evidence safely and securely on-line using multi-media, cross reference it against standards and at the same time use that data to create reports that you know have been instantly updated.

The new management information report allows a centre to review the progress of their candidates against their predicted end date and if there are concerns then from the same report they can link to;

- Unit Progress Report; that shows % achievement by individual unit
- Record of Assessment Report; that captures all the action taken by assessor and verifiers in relation to that candidate, all dated and ascribed to the person taking that action.
- Audit trail; which is like a summary paper grid and can be used to drill down and look at all evidence and comments at the level of Unit; Element; Performance Indicator and Knowledge level.
- Summary Report; that graphically shows what is complete and what is still to do.

This is now available on all our sites at no additional cost to our current or future users.

Our Customer Services Director Chris Peat who visits assessment centres across the UK remarks that,

'I have always been concerned to see the number of other databases that are being used to produce reports for auditing purposes, knowing that the e-portfolio has within it all the data that centres require to check learner's progress and their assessor's and verifier's activity. They also quite rightly want to monitor the quality of the assessment and verification that is taking place. One of the major advantages of an e-portfolio is that this data is instantly available. This new super management information report puts all the key data on one page'.

Axia Interactive Media is committed to continuing to improve its pioneering NOW.net platform, Richard Etheridge the company's Technical Services Director comments that 'We have been working on some major updates to our core e-portfolio platform and this has enabled us to introduce this enhanced reporting. It is the same new functionality that allows members of professional bodies to easily choose from their CPD records which ones to include in any report they want to produce.'
